Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Tribles Sermons: Being a Series of Practical and Doctrinal Discourses No man occupies a higher office in this world than the minister of Christs gospel. Viewed in the light of its results, no work known to men is more important than the faithful and efficient proclamation of the will of God to a sinning world. Those who tell us that the pulpit is to be superseded by the press have not duly considered the vantage ground of the former and its special function; but the press may greatly widen the influence of the pulpit by carrying its matured utterances on vital themes to a much larger number of persons. In this way these two great agencies may co-operate, as they should do, in the enlightenment and salvation of the world. When, about one year ago, the death of Prof. J. M Tribles, of Bethany College, was announced, a sense of loss to the Church and to the cause of religious reformation was universal among all who knew him. He had not yet reached the zenith of his powers, and yet his public utterances were marked by a maturity of thought and a purity of diction which gave promise of great service to the cause of Christ. It was a source of gratification to learn, afterwards, that he had left a number of sermons in manuscript, sufficiently complete to warrant their publication in book form. From these manuscript sermons enough have been selected for this volume, leaving a sufficient number for other volumes if they should ever be demanded. In this way the living and vitalizing thought of our lamented brotner will continue to do...
