Excerpt: .Cithasron, (38) that my doom May come from them who sought my death. But still, One thing I know: nor plague nor other ill Must ever wreck me--else I d ne er escaped When dying--till the ghastly doom be shaped. But let my fortune take what path it takes. Then, for my children--for the male ones sakes Urge no endeavour; they are men, and so Want not for livelihood where er they go. But these poor girls, my tearful, cheerless pair, Apart from whom my board was never set To separate them from my person yet, But still in all I touched they had their share--Take thought for them. And let me, if I may, Touch them, and weep together, weep away. O Sir, allow this I O gentle and generous! Touch them if I might, I d feel them mine as when I...
