Excerpt: . . . he accompanied them, having married Mary Blackburn, a daughter of George Blackburn, of Spring Station, and his wife, Prudence Berry. Captain George Holloway and his wife, Mary Blackburn, built a home in which they spent their entire lives, that adjoined the home of his father-in-law, at Spring Station, and tombstones mark the spot where rest the remains of him and his wife, not far from the residence. In this home they reared a large family of children, several of whom are buried in the family graveyard. Several of their children intermarried with their Blackburn relatives. It is likely that the old house still stands, but I am not sure. The names of the children of Captain George Holloway and Mary Blackburn were: Frank P. Holloway, who married first Mary Blanton, second his cousin, Henrietta Bartlett, widowed daughter of Gov. William Berry Blackburn and Martha...
